

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 31.

Democratic Ticket.

FOR PRESIDENT,
WILLIAM J. BRYAN,
OF NEBRASKA.
FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
ARTHUR SEAWALL,
OF MAINE.
FOR CONGRESS,
DAVID H. SMITH,
OF LARUE COUNTY.

AMID all the vicious charges that are being brought against the silver men, it would be well to keep in mind what they are really contending for. They do not seek to inaugurate a new system of finance, as the gold-bugs would have you believe, but are asking simply that silver be re-monetized—that it be placed back in the old channel of trade where it used to be, when times were good and money was plentiful. Simply this, and nothing more.

A VOTE for Palmer and Buckner is not a vote for Democracy in any sense of the word. In fact, the managers of these candidates have been prevented by law from using the word "Democratic" in heading their ballot. It is simply an annex or side-show of the Republican party, gotten up expressly for the purpose of defeating Bryan and free silver and not to "perpetuate the organization," as these gold-bug propagandists would have you believe. Don't be deceived by this mockery of the sacred principles of Democracy.

We notice a communication from Rockport in yesterday's Courier-Journal which bears the familiar marks of an erstwhile frequent contributor to THE HERALD. It seems he has recently renounced his Democratic views and gone over to the third party. We say recently, because THE HERALD of June 3d last contained a most fair-spirited card from him sent the County Convention, which ended with the splendid sentiment, "And I renew my pledge in advance to our nominees." Which are we to take for earnest, the "R" of June 3d or the "R" of October 20th?

It is currently reported on the streets of Hartford that the sum of ten thousand dollars is or soon will be at the disposal of the Republican managers here, to help carry Ohio county for McKinley and "sound money." This is a part of Mark Hanna's immense corruption fund, collected from the syndicates, trusts and big corporations of the country to aid the voter in understanding how to mark his ballot so as to make it call for the maintenance of the "existing standard," as also the perpetuation of the rich man's Paradise. But—can Ohio county voters be bought?

BRYAN is not a friend of the syndicates, trusts or stock exchanges. He has fought them from the start. It is a well known fact that these liberty-destroyers have contributed liberally to McKinley's campaign fund. Has Mr. McKinley said against them? Does anybody remember to have read a line or heard a word of Mr. McKinley's utterance in which he had anything to say against the trusts or the money power? Everybody knows that the trusts exist and are a constant menace to the liberties of the people, but Mr. McKinley is not going to say anything against his best friends.

THE Courier-Journal says if Mr. Bryan is elected "he will have to issue bonds to maintain a silver reserve." Now, isn't that refreshing news? Especially when we remember that the Courier-Journal has all along contended that if Mr. Bryan should be elected, silver money would be so plentiful that we would have silver dollars to throw at the birds. Why will we have to issue silver bonds if silver is going to be so plentiful? Why couldn't we just "chip in" and send a carload on to Washington and save the trouble of a bond issue? Truly this gold-bug paper has a hard time maintaining the "present standard" as also in preserving its own equilibrium.

Nobody—not even the gentleman himself—has come forward to deny that Congressman Lewis voted for a $500,000,000 gold bond issue for the enrichment of a few at the expense of the many or that he is the candidate of a party which includes the money kings of the country who seek to fasten the gold standard indefinitely upon the people. The few things which Mr. Lewis claims to have done for his constituents, and which comprise nothing more than his duty in Congress, pale into insignificance when compared with the harm his election would do the people, which would enable him to vote for more gold-bond issues and place the people

Bob Ingersoll on Silver.

Macaulay once wrote that if the great moneyed interests found it to their advantage to challenge the law of gravitation, they could obtain the services of very able men to denounce and ridicule that best established of physical laws. This great truth is being exemplified in the present campaign. At Chicago recently, Col. Bob Ingersoll, the Republican champion, denounced Bryan and the Democrats for advocating the free coinage of silver. Here is a quotation from Col. Ingersoll's lecture on "Farming," page 5, as reproduced from the Illinois State Register and published in pamphlet form by G. S. Baldwin, 184 Madison street, Chicago:

"For my part, I do not ask any interference on the part of the Government, except to undo the wrong it has done. I do not ask that money be made out of nothing. I do not ask for the prosperity born of paper. But I do ask for the re-monetization of silver. Silver was demonetized by fraud. It was an imposition upon every solvent man—a fraud upon every honest debtor in the United States. It was done in the interest of avarice and greed, and should be undone by honest men. The farmers should vote only for such men as are able and willing to guard and advance the interests of labor."

But we didn't expect it. All these things go to prove most conclusively that the National Democratic party is nothing more nor less than a side-show of the Republican party.

THE WORDS OF WEBSTER.

"He who tampers with the currency robs labor of its bread." The above lines, attributed to Daniel Webster, are part of an article that is kept standing at the head of the editorial columns of several gold-bug newspapers. No truer words were ever written. As applied to the present state of affairs, they fit the case exactly. Had our currency never been tampered with, had our financial affairs been allowed to run in the same smooth channel that they did until the dark crime of 1873 changed their course, we would not now be a paralyzed and pauperized nation and labor would not be crying for bread. The Shylocks and money kings of the country have tampered with our currency and have thereby not only robbed labor of its bread, but the influence of their machinations has been felt in every place where money rewards industry, in every channel of trade, creating a spirit of distrust and a dearth of business that menaces the very life of the nation.

It was not done openly; it was done surreptitiously and by stealth. Secretly and without warning this coinage law was placed upon the statute books to exercise its baleful influence over the marts of trade. The people, whose welfare is affected and who were most vitally interested in its operations than the authors of the measure themselves, were not consulted. For more than eighty years (1792 to 1873) our financial affairs had moved along smoothly and no change was needed. Silver and gold were circulating side by side at the ratio of 16 to 1, our financial policy was unquestioned, the people were prosperous and contented so far as money affairs were concerned, and the business of the country was on a steady increase. There were no gold-bug issues, no trusts, and our system of finance was as sound as the Rock of Gibraltar. Why should we need a change?—why should our currency be tampered with? And if it must be tampered with, who was to do the tampering? Not the people. They were prosperous and contented and in blissful ignorance that such an act was contemplated. Had they been consulted and their wishes regarded, much misery, deprivation and suffering in after years would have been averted. But there were then—as will always be the case as long as the world stands—a few men who were not making money fast enough to suit their own longings for vast wealth. Outside of those who had inherited large estates there were few men who could command any considerable amount of money and the chances for quickly accumulating wealth were not good. Earning money by labor or by merchandising was too slow a process. They wanted a system of finance which would make it possible to become a millionaire in the course of a few years and which would enable them to increase their millions proportionately as their millions rolled on. And they began to scheme.

The laws of Great Britain provided for the free coinage of gold and silver, at the ratio of 15 to 1, until the year 1816. Then silver was demonetized and the single gold standard was adopted, which is in force to-day. The crafty financiers of America beheld their brethren across the water and their system of quickly accumulating wealth, and they saw no reason why they should not be able to do likewise. And then they began to tamper with our currency.

The world knows the result. Not a reader of these lines but what knows the result. Not a humble home in all this broad land that has not felt the effects of a depreciated currency, the demonetization of silver, the tampering with our currency.

It has permitted men to accumulate vast wealth, not by labor or by merchandising, but by speculating in stocks and bonds. It has permitted trusts to arise in our midst and control the prices of products to such an extent that they can go within the domains of your home circle and force you to pay tribute money to their greed and power. It has forced our Government to issue bond sales for millions of dollars in times of peace, just the same as if a great war were in progress. It has permitted wealth to accumulate in the hands of a few until fifty men in the city of New York can to-day control the markets of the country for the necessities of life, and in consequence bring within the domain of their power every man, woman and child in the United States. It has cheapened labor, made money scarce and hard to get, blighted the markets for the products of the earth and brought suffering and want to those who should prosper and be happy.

Enumeration of ills would add to its guilt. These charges are true, as everyone knows who is not blinded by partisan prejudice or overawed by party zeal. Our currency has been tampered with. How are we to remedy the matter? By legislating affairs back into the old channel. By going back to the old times when the troubles that now harass and threaten us were unknown. By simply putting affairs into the condition in which we used to enjoy them. By saying to the money power, "You shall not longer dominate us—we will be free."

The day of emancipation is near at hand. It is less than a month off. The supporters of the gold standard who have tampered with our currency must be rebuked and the financial law which they have placed in force done away with. There is but one way in which you can down the money power. That is by voting it down. The voice of the individual they pay no attention to, but the voice of the people they must heed. Go to the polls on the 3d of next month and vote against the reign of plutocracy and gold.

Mr. Jo A. Parker will address the citizens of Ohio county at the Fair grounds near Hartford next Saturday, October 3d, at 2 o'clock, p. m., and at McHenry at night at 7 o'clock. Everybody invited.

I have used Dr. Bell's Pink Pills and found them to be what is represented for constipation and liver complaint; they are the best. Not only cured me, but have heard a great many traveling men who speak the same as I. Any one suffering with constipation or liver trouble, try a trial and it will cure you.

Talked On Finance All Day.

Mr. Wm. Roberts, of the Waverly neighborhood, certainly proved himself on last Saturday a debater whose staying qualities are not to be questioned. Arriving in this city about 10 o'clock, a. m., he at once entered into a discussion with some willing brother concerning the money question. He talked until the hour of noon, when he heeded the call of his inner self for food, he only took an extra hitch in his pastimes and continued his discussion. Nor did he cease until the shades of evening were gathering on the land and the cooling breezes of night had quenched his heated enthusiasm. At some moments in his discourse, he was greeted by an audience of probably two hundred listeners.

This testimonial is unsolicited and for the benefit of humanity. My daughter has been subject to severe colic and griping and often taken with violent vomiting spells at night. Dr. Bell's Pink Pills have been the only preparation I have found that will relieve her. I think it is as necessary in the household as a life preserver on a steamboat.

Respectfully,

$100,000 WORTH OF SILVER.

A Rich Montana Man Will Agree to Pay $1.10 Per Ounce in Gold for It.

HELENA, MONT., Sep. 26.—Mr. Chas. E. Ely authorizes the publication in the Post-Dispatch of the following letter:

HELENA, MONT., Sept. 17, 1895.
MR. CHAS. E. ELY, Helena, Mont. Dear Sir:—I hereby authorize you to publish that I will make a contract for one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) worth of silver for which I will agree to pay one dollar and ten cents ($1.10) per ounce in the United States gold coin and to be taken as soon as W. J. Bryan, as President of the United States, has signed a coinage bill which will provide for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at a ratio compared with gold of 16 to 1, and if any of those who are talking about 50-cent dollars desire this contract, and are willing to put up a forfeit, I am prepared to receive this offer by a forfeit of twenty thousand dollars ($20,000).

I feel confident that I can arrange similar contracts among my circle of business acquaintances for twenty million dollars ($20,000,000) to be taken one million a month for twenty months after a signature of such a bill.

Truly yours,
R. H. KLEINSCHMIDT.

This offer was sent by Mr. Kleinschmidt to the New York World. The editor of the World declined to publish it, but wired to Helena to ascertain if Mr. Kleinschmidt is responsible. Then the World found out that Mr. Kleinschmidt is one of the leading merchants of Helena and owns large interests in gold mines in this State and his ability to form a syndicate of Montana millionaires that will agree to take $20,000,000 worth of silver at $1.10 per ounce in gold, as soon as a bill providing for the free coinage of silver is signed, is unquestioned. What is left now of the so-called 50-cent dollar?

Hon. David R. Murray will address the citizens of Ohio county at Hartford, Ky., Monday, October 3d, 1895, at 2 o'clock, p. m., and at Beaver Dam at night at 7 o'clock. Everybody invited.

Hanna's Rough Hand.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—(Special.)—A statement comes from New York to-day, showing how Mark Hanna tried out $8,000,000 of the fat he intended to use in the debate territory of the middle West. While in the East, Hanna lingered quite awhile, but it was for a purpose. He needed funds for the Chicago spread, and he is alleged to have written Morgan G. Buckley, at Hartford, "I want $1,000,000 from Connecticut, and I want it quick." The statement further says that, through the Republican national committee, Hanna decided to assess all the New England financial institutions one-eighth of 1 per cent. of their capital stock. Ex-Gov. Buckley is acting for Hanna in Connecticut. Particular indignation has been aroused over the efforts to assess mutual insurance companies and savings banks. In New Jersey nine national banks, through their directors, have voted to pay Hanna's assessments of $1,000 each, estimated "according to the business done." All this is in spite of the protests of Democrats on the boards, who dare make no complaints. The New Jersey State Democratic committee, however, has announced that it will take legal action in every case of intimidation coming to its notice, more than 100 cases having already been detailed to the committee. Thus has Hanna hand dived into the Eastern bank vaults.

Silver Production.

(Continued from page 1.) One of the main arguments of the nonmetalists is that the production of silver has so increased during the last few years that it cannot all be coined without producing an inflated condition of money. This is so constantly repeated that an answer must also be repeatedly given.

The first fact to be borne in mind is that the annual supply of gold and silver has little effect upon the total stock of the two metals in the world. If we consumed the annual products every year, as we do farm products, the annual production would be a very important consideration. But gold and silver can neither be eaten nor worn out. It does get worn some by abrasion, and some of it is lost in ships at sea, but the great bulk of gold and silver taken out of the ground since the commencement of human activity is still in existence. All the authorities on this subject agree that there is about four billions of each of the two metals now in existence as money. All the rest has been used for other purposes in the arts and manufactures, except such as has been lost. The highest amount ever produced in one year only equaled three per cent. of the total amount in the world. The production of that year, therefore, did not materially affect the total supply. The same may be said of any given year. It is conceivable that if all the wheat that has been grown since the days of the Pharaohs in Egypt was still on hand, it would not make much difference whether we had a large crop or a small one, or none at all during the present year, or during the next five or ten years.

The production of silver during the first half of the present century was twice the amount of gold produced during the same period. The amount of gold produced in the third quarter of this century was twice the amount of silver produced during the same period. But during all that time both the metals were coined without limit, and each maintained its value with relation to the other. When the production of silver was twice as large as that of gold, the value of gold was fifteen and a half times that of silver. This is absolute proof that the excessive production of the one metal over the other has no effect upon the relative price of either so long as the mints are open to both. When we entered upon the third quarter of this century, the mints of the world were closed to the free coinage of silver, and although the production of silver for the following twenty years was only ten per cent. greater than that of gold, the value of that metal as bullion fell one half. This is a demonstration of the fact that the commercial value of each metal follows its coinage value. When silver is coined without limit, it is worth as many dollars as it can be coined into; 371½ grains of pure silver is then worth the pure gold in a gold dollar. Nor does this depend on bi-metalism. France maintained the parity of the two metals throughout the world from 1803 until 1873 by her policy of the unlimited coinage of both at the ratio of fifteen and a half to one.

New discoveries of the precious metals have always been hailed as blessings to mankind. The world's resources alone see disaster in them. They prey upon the distances of mankind. They do not want the debtor to pay his debts; they want him to forfeit the security at a great sacrifice. Pawnbrokers make more money by the sale of pledges left by them by spendthrifts than they do by the extortionate rates of interest they demand upon their loans.

J. P. MILLER,
Ch'm'n People's Party Com.

An Old Soldier's Views.

EDITOR HERALD:—To all intents and purposes the present issue is between the English and the American ideas. The English idea is embodied in our present monetary system, which is unwise and oppressive. The American idea is embodied in the system that was adopted by the patriots of the revolution, and which was abrogated because it was too American. We refer you to the history of the infamous crime of 1873 by which you will learn how this abrogation was effected. We will then call your attention to the fact that the advocates and beneficiaries of the gold standard, having secured the co-operation of a political party of national prestige, rich in record of past achievements and flushed with recent victories, they have openly defied the populace and denounce all who oppose their policy as lunatics and anarchists. The Republican party has been seduced and prostituted by the money power with solid arguments drawn from the bank instead of the brain, or probably at a ratio of 16 from the bank and 1 from the brain. The issue is clear and positive, the tariff is out of sight, the Force bill is dead, the bloody shirt is buried, and patriots are a public nuisance and patriots are rushing to the rescue from all parties; the American idea must and shall prevail. The man or the party that says we are not able to attend to our own business is unworthy of the name of American.

The party that endorses the crime of 1873 by pledging itself to maintain that crime, should emigrate to Africa and place themselves under the protecting care of England, where they may nurse their sickly English ideas to their hearts' content. It is no time to blow about the grand achievements of the Republican party; we don't deny them. But why have you allowed the Democratic party to displace you as the champion of the American people? After having saved the country once, why have you gone over to the enemy and why do you advocate a policy that is not only un-American but which will bring upon us a worse damnation? After having freed four millions of colored people, why do you propose to degrade and enslave sixty millions of white people? We ask these questions of the party bosses. We know the rank and file are patriotic and all right, except that their party loyalty has blinded them and made it possible for political tricksters to lead them into a trap. Speaking of party blindness, allow me to say that I was down with that complaint myself; in fact it came very near "running into the chronic." I am now convalescent; in fact I am up and about. I will suggest some sanitary rules that may prevent you from getting as bad as I was. Give your party the benefit of all honest doubts, but never vote for a man or a measure that you know is bad. Preserve self-respect at all hazards.

I was so blind that I did not notice that part of the Republican platform which virtually admits that the gold standard is wrong, and pledges the party to plead with other nations for permission to go back to the double standard. The admission is contradictory, the sentiment is un-American, and the pledge is cowardly. We need another declaration of independence and patriots instead of partisans to enforce it. Old comrades, I have learned to trust as well as to love you. If you endorse such stuff and vote unanimously for the gold standard English idea, and if you take more than all our money into the treasury and in circulation to redeem the paper; second, that our gold is but little more than a fourth of our circulation; third, that we have in circulation nearly twice as much paper as specie, and fourth, that more of our circulation is silver, or based on silver, than of gold.

Striking Features.

Our whole stock of metallic money on May 1 of this year was $1,095,558, 920 and of paper $1,181,468, 000. Striking features of the detailed treasury statement are: First, that we have more paper than metallic money, and that we take more than all our money into the treasury and in circulation to redeem the paper; second, that our gold is but little more than a fourth of our circulation; third, that we have in circulation nearly twice as much paper as specie, and fourth, that more of our circulation is silver, or based on silver, than of gold.

Republican Eight and Four Years Ago.

"The American people, from tradition and interest, are in favor of bi-metalism and demand the issue of both gold and silver as standard money," said the Republican platform of eight years ago. "We condemn the Democratic party in its efforts to demonetize silver," it said four years ago.

AYER'S CHERRY
PECTORAL

"Two years ago, I had the grippe, and it left me with a cough which gave me no rest night or day. My family physician prescribed for me, changing the medicine as often as he found the things I had taken were not helping me, but, in spite of his attendance, I got no better. Finally my husband, reading one day of a gentleman who had had the grippe and was cured by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, procured for me a bottle of this medicine, and before I had taken half of it, I was cured. I have used the Pectoral for my children and in my family, and whenever I have needed it, and have found it a specific for colds, coughs, and lung troubles."—EMERY WOOD, North St., Elkhart, Md.
